The UA logo is specifically designed to identify the University of Alaska. This logo is composed of the representative icon, logotype and tagline. The new signature is exemplified by a modern globe with stylize lines creating Alaska's geographical location as well as representing the latitudinal and longitudinal lines of the globe. The three stylized lines also form an “A” while referring to the three campuses which creates a statewide unit.

These guidelines specify how the logo and its colors are to be used to create a foundation for visual unity, impact and consistency when used in print, broadcast and electronic media.

Spot Pantone 647 should be used when printing spot colors, and the process build should be used when using four color printing. If Pantone 647 is not one of the spot colors, the logo should be printed in black.
Use black ink when printing a one-color logo. If not using black ink, you may print this logo in the ink required, although it damages the consistency of the logo. If printing two to three spot colors, and one is not Pantone 647, use the black and white logo only.

CLEAR SPACE AROUND LOGO
Allow 1/5 of X (the size from the top of the logo to the bottom) spacing on all sides of the logo.

LOGO WITHOUT TAGLINE
Remove the tagline "Many Traditions One Alaska" and the rule above it when logo is 3/4" or smaller from the top of the box to the bottom of "Alaska" or when space is limited.

Never recreate the logo. Do not substitute the font in the tagline or in University of Alaska. Adobe Garamond is the suggested typeface for body copy when creating a layout, although this is not the typeface used in the University of Alaska logo. (Adobe Garamond is used in this body copy.)

Never use the icon/box without “University of Alaska”. You may use the box/icon as a texural element in your designs as long as the entire logo is used in the piece also.

University of Alaska is ultimately responsible for approving uses which do not follow the established guidelines. Such uses will be carefully and openly considered.

The basic goal is to meet the needs of the University of Alaska without doing damage to the consistency of the identity system.
The logo is available in EPS format, created in Illustrator and saved as 6.0 for PCs. The logo is also available in jpeg format for electronic media only and in tiff format. In all cases other than electronic media, the EPS format must be used. If unable to use EPS, you may use tiff only when transparent backgrounds are not required.

If there is need for a different format, it should be requested, and UA will submit the graphic file to you. Do not reformat unless permission is granted by UA.

Never replace the typeface either in the tagline or in the University of Alaska with your own.
Never change the layout of the logo to make it more horizontal.
Do not use the logo on a busy pattern or background that impairs its legibility.
Do not stretch any part of the logo at any time.
The format cannot be compromised: do not slant or rotate the logo in any way.

Only the approved typeface can be used. Do not substitute the font in the tagline or in University of Alaska.

Never use the icon part of the logo alone.
