

Accounting and Administrative Manual
Section 100: Accounting and Finance

Accounting for Interdepartmental Revenue
No.: A-04

Date: 03/25/21
Page: 1 of 1

General:

Interdepartmental revenue is recorded using the 99xx account code series. Generally, interdepartmental transactions are recorded by recharge centers or when one department/unit performs a service for another department/unit and there is a need to record “revenue”. Examples of such a need are when a department/unit needs to evaluate profitability of a given function or when a service needs to be properly costed. Interdepartmental activity is not to be confused with transfers, which are discussed in A-26 “Accounting for Mandatory and Nonmandatory Transfers” in Section 100 in the University of Alaska Accounting and Administrative Manual.

The following are examples of interdepartmental transactions. This list is not intended to be all-inclusive.

Debit / Credit	Description
3003 / 9909	Business office administrative charge for collecting parking fees for security department
3003 / 9909	Charges to auxiliary funds for accounting services
3003 / 9909	SW Land Management administers lease activity for campuses
308x, 309x / 9905	Research service center charges
3222 / 9904	UAF pays for software maintenance fee, other campuses reimburse for agreed-upon share
3223 / 9906	Academic computing assessment
3223 / 9906	Network support
3771 / 9902	Charges to auxiliary funds for physical plant support
3771 / 9902	Physical Plant recharge activity
3799 / 9904	Charges to auxiliary funds for security
3989 / 9904	Insurance allocation
3991 / 9904	Payment by UAF SFOS to UAS for library use
8502 / 9992	Contributions to student groups (agency funds)
8502 / 9992	Distribution of net raffle proceeds to agency fund