Summary: Retention Rates

The retention rate measures the proportion of first-time, full-time students enrolled in the Fall who return the following Fall. University-level retention tracks students who re-enroll for credit at the same university the following Fall, while UA System-level retention tracks those who re-enroll at any university within the system.

Over the last five years, the retention rate for freshmen seeking any degree increased from 64.4 percent to 68.7 percent (Table 1). During this period, the retention rate for Indigenous students seeking any degree increased from 52.3 percent to 55.0 percent (Table 2). According to recent nationwide data, 62.3 percent of students at four-year, public, open-enrollment institutions who started in Fall 2022 returned in Fall 2023 (NCES 2024[1]). In comparison, the UA System's retention rate for the same period was 66.8 percent overall (Table 1), and the overall Indigenous retention rate was 55.4 percent (Table 2).

In four-year programs, 73.2 percent of bachelor-seeking freshmen were retained from Fall 2025 to Fall 2026, a 2 percentage point decrease from the previous year (Table 3). For Indigenous students at the bachelor's degree-seeking level, the retention rate from Fall 2025 to Fall 2026 was 59.9 percent, a 1.2 percentage point increase from the previous year (Table 4).

In two-year programs, 62.2 percent of associate degree-seeking freshmen were retained from Fall 2025 to Fall 2026, 4.6 percentage points higher than the previous year's rate, reaching a ten-year high (Table 5). The retention rate for Indigenous associate degree-seeking freshmen held steady with a 0.1 percentage point decrease from 53.4 percent to 53.3 percent (Table 6).

The retention rate for students seeking certificates or occupational endorsements decreased by 8.8 percentage points to 25.6 percent between Fall 2025 and Fall 2026 (Table 7). During this period, Indigenous freshmen seeking certificates or occupational endorsements had a retention rate of 17.4 percent, a 19.4 percentage point decrease from the previous year (Table 8).

The retention rate for Pell Grant recipients seeking any undergraduate degree reached 65.3 percent at the UA System level, a ten-year high. Pell Grant recipients seeking an associate's degree had a retention rate of 58.0 percent, also a ten-year high (Table 9). The retention rate for Indigenous Pell recipients seeking any undergraduate degree increased 3.9 percentage points to 50.8 percent. Indigenous Pell recipients seeking a bachelor's degree had a retention rate increase of 1.9 percentage points over the past year, bringing the current rate to 54.3 percent (Table 10).

Note: A student is deemed retained if they register for credit in the fall semester subsequent to their initial enrollment. Retention rates are computed at two levels: the individual university and the UA System level. The university retention rate represents students who were retained at their initial university of enrollment, and the UA System level retention rate represents students retained at any university within the UA System in the following fall. University cohorts are identified based on class standing, full-time status, and degree combination at the respective university. The UA System cohorts are determined based on class standing, full-time status, and degree combination at the system level.

The most recently published national retention rate for students enrolling at public, four-year, open admissions institutions was 62.3 percent in FY24.

Note: A student is deemed retained if they register for credit in the fall semester subsequent to their initial enrollment. Retention rates are computed at two levels: the individual university and the UA System level. The university retention rate represents students who were retained at their initial university of enrollment, and the UA System level retention rate represents students retained at any university within the UA System in the following fall. University cohorts are identified based on class standing, full-time status, and degree combination at the respective university. The UA System cohorts are determined based on class standing, full-time status, and degree combination at the system level.
