MEMORANDUM

TO: Anupma Prakash, Provost of the University of Alaska Fairbanks
FROM: Michael Hirt, Construction Trades Technology Program Head Michael Hirt ✓
DATE: October 10, 2018
SUBJECT: Deletion of Program

Program and Degree: Construction Trades Technology, Associate of Applied Science

School or College: College of Rural and Community Development

Department: Department of Indigenous, Community and Tribal Programs

The Construction Trades Technology Program (CTT) is requesting the deletion of the Associate of Applied Science (AAS) degree program, which has been in suspension since 2014. The AAS degree was originally suspended due to little to no enrollment, graduates and a lack of industry support, as the AAS is not an industry recognized credential.

There are currently no active students within the AAS, and the discontinuation will not result in the elimination or reassignment of any positions within the CTT Program. Additionally, there will be no budgetary impact and no other programs or areas will be affected by the discontinuation of the program.

No new applications have been accepted since October 1, 2014, for a two-year period the Construction Trades Technology Program will accommodate, through other arrangements, any student who contact the program expressing a desire to complete their degree.
